COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course is a survey of the American political framework and processes. The course covers the Constitutional structure and functions of the legislative, executive and judicial branches at national, state and local levels. Using a Madisonian framework, this course will examine the challenges of democratic theory in practice. With an emphasis on pluralism, students will place themselves within current political debates. Viewed in the context of political parties, interest groups, and citizenship, students will engage with questions about power and justice. Emphasis will be placed on protests movements, such as the civil rights and women's rights movements.

Partially satisfies:(Refer to current transfer guide.)

IGTEC Area D: Social Sciences requirement.

CSU Graduation Requirement: US History, Constitution & American Ideals

TEACHING & LEARNING COMMUNITY:

This course will incorporate a variety of learning activities and engagement opportunities. Participants will interact with lectures, read the text and additional materials, record academic notes, and participate in a series of discussions on hot button issues. Students are required to keep up with the course schedule and complete all assignments by their assigned due dates. Students will be required to actively engage in the teaching and learning process through group and peer teaching exercises. In our learning community, everyone's contributions are valued and respected. We are all in this together and I look forward to learning with you throughout the semester. The members of a course represent a rich variety of backgrounds and perspective. I am committed to working with you to provide an atmosphere for learning that respects diversity. We will work together to build this learning community by asking all class members to:

- Share their unique experiences, values and beliefs.
- Be open to the views of others.
- Honor the uniqueness of their colleagues.
- Appreciate the opportunity that we have to learn from each other in this community.
- Value each other's opinions and communicate in a respectful manner
- Keep confidential discussions that occur within class that are of a personal nature.
- Consider other ways that we may create an inclusive learning environment within this course and the Foothill College community.

NETIQUETTE

"Netiquette" refers to online communication etiquette. Our online classroom is an academic environment where we can safely share our points of view, expressed with respect for others. Here are some basic guidelines that all participants should follow:

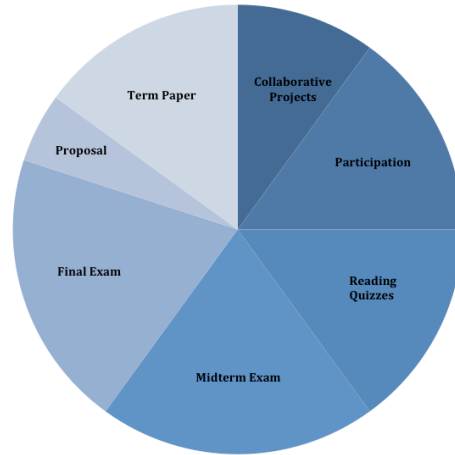

- Express your opinions politely, even if you disagree with someone. Be open and willing to accept other points of view.
- Course discussions and other shared content is private and copyright protected. Do not disseminate this content outside of the online classroom unless granted permission by the author(s).
- Do not use "texting" abbreviations when communicating in the online classroom. Be professional. Use concise, well-constructed language. Follow the rules of spelling and grammar.
- Avoid sarcasm and humor, as these can be easily misinterpreted, especially by individuals of different cultures than your own.
- Do not send messages that you write when you are angry or upset. Reread every post before you send it.
- Do not use all capital letters, as it is considered SHOUTING.
- Construct your messages in a text editor and transfer them to the LMS after proofing them for Netiquette.

EVALUATION:

Your performance will be evaluated by your participation in class discussion and collaborative projects, a midterm exam, reading quizzes, a term paper proposal and term paper, and a final exam. Students are required to complete all assignments as outlined in the weekly schedule, no late work will be accepted.
